SYNOPSIS OF FACTS:

On July 10, 1944, JAMES CAGNEY, the actor, reported to the Los Angeles Office receipt of telephone calls from one [REDACTED] requesting audience with him to determine whether he was identical with a JAMES CAGNEY whom she had met in Detroit, Michigan, in September, 1943. Interview with [REDACTED] developed the fact an individual purporting to be CAGNEY, the actor, became intimate with him, and was told that they would be married after his return from London, England, in the spring of 1944. Correspondence carried on between them and she has heard nothing more of him since he allegedly left for England in February of 1944. [REDACTED] told by the Detroit CAGNEY that he was an FBI agent in his spare time doing counterespionage work; that he had worked on the Buchanan-Dineen case in Detroit, was going to England to do a similar type of work, had been over the Pacific in December of 1943, and that his life was constantly in danger. JAMES CAGNEY, the actor, denied ever knowing [REDACTED] and when they were brought together on July 18, 1944, she remarked on the exact similarity of the man she had known and the actor but indicated they were not identical. However, on expressing a desire to "just look at him", touch him, and then have his autograph, CAGNEY became irritated and subsequently [REDACTED] said that she believed they were identical. This statement somewhat modified thereafter. Handwriting specimens of the Detroit CAGNEY obtained and forwarded to FBI Laboratory.

DETAILS: The investigation in this matter is predicated upon the receipt of a telephone call by the writer on July 10, 1944, from WILLIAM CAGNEY, head of William Cagney Productions, Guidwyn Studios, 1041 Formosa, Hollywood, California, telephone Granite 5111. The writer had previously been in touch with CAGNEY on other matters of official business.

In this telephone call WILLIAM CAGNEY said that he had just received a call from his brother, JAMES CAGNEY, the actor, who was calling from his beach home requesting that the story which they had previously discussed be immediately furnished the Bureau. He continued that within the past two weeks both he and his brother had been receiving telephone calls from a woman who stated her name was [REDACTED]. It is to be noted that [REDACTED] when interviewed as set forth hereinafter said she told CAGNEY her name was [REDACTED], the reason therefor being obvious as will appear. WILLIAM CAGNEY had misunderstood the pronunciation of the name. He continued that she told him that she wanted to meet his brother, JAMES CAGNEY, to find out if he was the same man that she had met in Detroit in September of 1943. She continued that this man who said he was JAMES CAGNEY, the actor, made love to her, became intimate with her, and told her he was with the FBI doing counterespionage work. [REDACTED] requested an appointment with JAMES CAGNEY, but he stalled her and was reporting the matter to this office. CAGNEY said she told him she was employed at [REDACTED] at the present time; that she had some letters from [REDACTED] interesting to WILLIAM CAGNEY the actor; and that they might be connected with WILLIAM CAGNEY. She gave her telephone number as [REDACTED] and stated his brother, JAMES, has the telephone number of [REDACTED] in the event it was necessary to get in touch with them.

On the same date Special Agents [REDACTED] and the writer interviewed WILLIAM and JAMES CAGNEY in their studio offices. At that time JAMES CAGNEY denied ever having known of or having any connection with [REDACTED] in Detroit or anywhere else and both brothers then explained that there had been occasions in the past years where individuals representing themselves to be one of the CAGNEY family had passed checks, etc. They expressed the desire to be of any possible assistance.

B7C

On July 12, 1944, Agent interviewed [REDACTED] after having previously made a telephone appointment. She was advised of Agent's identity and she inquired as to whether the matter had been referred to this office by the CAGNEYS and she was told that that was the case. She said that she felt that probably the Bureau was wasting its time in going into the matter because all she was interested in was actually seeing JAMES CAGNEY, the actor, to straighten out the problem in her mind.

B7C
B7D

Upon interview with [REDACTED] in her apartment on the above date she advised that on the date she placed as September 18, 1943, at the cocktail bar of [REDACTED] in Detroit she had cocktails with a party of friends. At that time she stated the Hollywood Victory Committee had a group of Hollywood stars appearing in Detroit in connection with the bond drive. That night she met a man who said he was JAMES CAGNEY, the actor. He was in a party of other friends including JAMES WALKER and PAUL HERRING. These were the only stars she could recall being there in addition to CAGNEY. She said that he pointed out his brother, BILL CAGNEY, as being present and went on to talk with her generally about life as an actor and their friendship developed to the extent that he requested her to write to him as the tour progressed and said he wanted to come back and see her.

At this first meeting CAGNEY told her that he was a member of the FBI and that while in Detroit he had been working on the Buchanan-Dixie case. He claimed he had personally met DIXIE. He pointed out that under that pretense of appearing in bond drives as CAGNEY, the actor, he was well fitted to carry on the counterespionage work which he was doing for the FBI. He told her that he had to fly all over the country on secret missions and that his life was in danger at all times. She said, however, that he did not at any time display any credentials nor did he receive anything of a monetary value from her. That same night CAGNEY had to leave to continue the tour but she said that under date of October 5, 1943, she received a letter postmarked New Orleans, Louisiana, and written on the stationery of [REDACTED] Said letter was addressed to her [REDACTED] and read as follows:

B7C

Date 4, 1943

Remember me? A fellow named 'Jim' or should I recall our meeting? I hope you have remembered.

Will arrive in Detroit Monday Oct 18 under the assumed name of [REDACTED] just to have a rest & see you if possible. How about a note or a call Monday. To let me know if you can make it address the note to the above & I'll inquire when I arrive. Heres hoping I can have your time for 2 or 3 days

Always
"Jim"
J.C.

The above letter is being forwarded to the Bureau for appropriate handwriting comparison. Mention is made of the fact that on the back of the envelope the writer of the letter has written the initials, "J.C."

[REDACTED] stated that on October 18, 1943, he returned to Detroit; that she got in touch with him at [REDACTED] by calling for [REDACTED] that commencing at that time their association became intimate; and that he remained in Detroit for two or three days. On leaving he apparently went to New Orleans, Louisiana, because she had a telegram from him sent from there October 29, 1943, in which he made mention of receiving her letters. [REDACTED] would not exhibit to the writer all of the letters she received from him.

There were apparently some eight communications which she received. She advised that he had instructed her to write him at the following address, letters to reach there on the dates designated, as he had told her he was continuing the bond tour and would be in those cities at that times. She was to write him in care of [REDACTED] where he would be on Monday and Tuesday October 25 and 26, 1943; in care of [REDACTED] on October 27, 1943; and in care of [REDACTED] on October 28, 29, and 30, 1943.

[REDACTED] received a letter from Subject on the stationery of [REDACTED] on December 9, 1943, another letter from [REDACTED] postmarked December 21, 1943, and another letter from [REDACTED] postmarked January 3, 1944, and written on the stationery of [REDACTED] letter was directed to her at ██████████ as will be explained in more detail hereinafter. ██████████ has friends ██████████ and was at that time supposed to be there. In this letter Subject stated that he was planning to be in Detroit on the 18th or 19th of January, 1944, and wanted to see her. Agent obtained the envelope and part of the letter directed to her ██████████ for comparison purposes and the first page of same reads as follows:

Jan. 3, 1944

B7C
B7D

Hello My Darling:

Well, schedules really change, here I am here, for the day. Then on to other sites. This has been my first chance to write since my last letter. Don't know where you are, how you are, or anything, & it worries me.

Thought once or twice I'd never get to write again, but everything worked out OK, I, Meil Gee, I wish I had just a note from you, or something.

Honey, I won't be in Detroit as planned, not till the 19th now, if then. So if you give up your apt, how about dropping me a note ██████████ to let me . . . .

██████████ said that he had appeared in Detroit on January 19, 1944, and she spent the day with him. She subsequently recalled that she believed Subject stayed at the Statler Hotel on this occasion. The last word she had from him was by letter dated February 4, 1944, ██████████. This was likewise directed to her ██████████. In this letter, which ██████████ allowed the writer to read, he stated that the following day, February 5, 1944, he was leaving on his "mission" headed for "April 2nd". When asked to explain this statement ██████████ said that Subject had been telling her all along that around April 2nd the Allies were going to invade Europe; that he had previously told her he was going to London, England, to do some work for the FBI; and also April 2nd was the date which they had tentatively set as their marriage date. In reference to marriage she said that he first told her that he was secretly divorced and that because of his work in pictures he could not make public this information, and later he changed the story to admit that he was married and contemplated getting a divorce so that they could be married. This letter ended by saying that he would not be able to write her thereafter nor would she hear from him until he tried to locate her upon his return to this country. He said he would do this through ██████████.

From the contents of the letters read by Agent it was apparent that Subject was intimate with ██████████ that he had promised or assured her that they would eventually be married; for example, in the last letter mentioned he told her that as he looked out over the Atlantic, should the ship go down, his last thoughts would be of her, etc.

In reference to other communications to and from the Subject [REDACTED] said that she believed it was about November of 1943 she sent a telegram to [REDACTED] in care of William Cagney Productions in Hollywood asking him when he was going to be in Detroit. Although it did not appear to be an answer to this wire, [REDACTED] said that within a few days she received a telegram from some city on the west coast saying he would be there within a few days. [REDACTED] said that she signed the telegram sent to the William Cagney Studio with her name, [REDACTED].

B7C
B7D

[REDACTED] said that she had written the Subject at [REDACTED] and at [REDACTED] and apparently that he received the letters, none having come back to her. On one of the occasions when he was at [REDACTED], [REDACTED] said that she observed that there appeared to be several men with him or at least in his company. As she went up the elevator on one occasion she observed that these men appeared to be on the lookout for her and sent information on ahead to the effect she was coming. The second time he was in Detroit, which according to [REDACTED] was October 18, 1943, she said he had a room on the sixteenth floor of the hotel [REDACTED]. In one of the letters received by her Subject described having been out over the Pacific on a secret mission and that there were times when he doubted if he would ever get back.

Asked to explain why he used the name, [REDACTED] when registering at the hotel Subject explained to her that he was using the name of his publicity agent that he did it to keep away from the public. All of his luggage she said bore the initials, [REDACTED]. In his conversation he talked frequently of his work with Warner Brothers and various movie personalities and told her that his mother was constantly traveling between the west and east coasts. In this connection she explained that he told her that he wanted his mother to know her and that he would have her write to [REDACTED].

In discussing this phase of the situation Agent was advised by the CAGNEY brothers that their mother has been bedridden for four years, suffering from a stroke.

[REDACTED] said that the Subject told her that his two brothers other than BILL CAGNEY were doctors and that both were in New York. In this connection JAMES CAGNEY advised that both brothers were on the west coast and had been for several years.

In this interview [REDACTED] stated that she was not out after anything from JAMES CAGNEY; that all she wanted to do was to satisfy her own mind that he was or was not identical with the man she met. She explained that it was hard to understand why, if this man was not JAMES CAGNEY, the actor, he should give himself such a buildup because after all, he did not have to do that to influence, impress, or persuade her. She expressed some doubt that the FBI would work on such a case, particularly if it appeared that CAGNEY, the actor was identical with the man she knew in Detroit. She was definitely advised that regardless of who was involved, if CAGNEY purported to be an agent of the FBI or some other individual posing as CAGNEY did so, the Bureau would investigate the matter to see that the guilty individual was ascertained and the matter presented for prosecution if such was warranted. She at this time said that she believed the best thing to do was to give her a chance to see JAMES CAGNEY so that she could see for herself whether he was identical with the man she knew. She was told that the investigation would be handled as was deemed best by this office and she would be contacted should her services be further needed.

On July 14, 1944, Special Agent [REDACTED] and the writer interviewed JAMES and WILLIAM CAGNEY at their studios, at which time a general discussion was had of CAGNEY's bond tour and it was noted that he was not in the United States on February 4, 1944, when the last letter was written to [REDACTED]. At that time WILLIAM CAGNEY suggested that it might be a good idea, if agents thought best, to bring [REDACTED] to the studio and let her see CAGNEY so that the matter would definitely cleared up.

It is of note that when WILLIAM CAGNEY was asked if he had any record in the studio of the telegram mentioned by [REDACTED] as having been sent to [REDACTED] in November of last year, he immediately said, "There is no record of that telegram here in the studio". As far as is known, that was the first time he had ever heard of it. The CAGNEYS volunteered to stay at the studio if [REDACTED] was available, but on contacting her it [REDACTED] advised it was necessary for her to work over time that night so an appointment was made for the following day, at which time she was taken to William Cagney Productions Studio offices at 2 PM by Agent [REDACTED] and the writer.

[REDACTED], an employee of William Cagney Productions, ushered [REDACTED] and agents into CAGNEY'S office where JAMES CAGNEY came in immediately thereafter. It is to be noted that WILLIAM CAGNEY would have been present for this interview had he not had the previous night but he told the writer that it was necessary to leave town early the following morning.

When JAMES CAGNEY entered the office, he and [REDACTED] gazed intently at each other, whereupon, she asked him if he had ever seen her before. The reply was, "Obviously not". After looking at him intently for a minute or so she stated, "That is not him but the similarity is amazing", and then went on talking to the effect that he and the man she knew were not identical. She asked him to let her touch him, they being seated on a divan. He consented to come so from a clear distance she studied his features. Thereafter the conversation was principally between CAGNEY and [REDACTED] CAGNEY asked her what this fellow looked like that she had known and comparisons were made of their features, height, weight, etc. It is noted that she said that both of them got weighed at the same time in Detroit and he weighed 160 pounds. CAGNEY, the actor, weighs 170. She had previously told the writer that the man she knew had a number of gold fillings in his front teeth. She asked CAGNEY if he had and he opened his mouth and showed her that he did. She told him that she wished he had dressed in better fashion.

B7D
B7C

It is to be noted that on three occasions upon which agents have seen CAGNEY, the actor, he wore clothes of good material but was sloppily dressed. He was dressed in this fashion on instant date. She said that the man she knew was always immaculately dressed and well groomed. She pointed out the difference in the haircuts. CAGNEY, the actor, had his hair long and shaggy in the back of his head, while the man [REDACTED] knew had clean cut hair.

During this general interview discussion was had in reference to CAGNEY's handwriting in comparison with that of the man [REDACTED] knew. He signed his name several times on a piece of paper and gave it to the writer for comparison purposes. [REDACTED] was watching this signing and thereafter asked CAGNEY if she could not have his autograph. CAGNEY refused [REDACTED] pointed out that he was irked. Both he and [REDACTED] herself was probably embarrassed, but the situation in which she found and specifically mentioned the telephone calls to his house by [REDACTED] at which times she talked with CAGNEY's wife. CAGNEY himself never talked with her. [REDACTED] explained that the only reason she had sought audience with him was to clear up the situation, stating that she was in love with the man she knew and he was purportedly in love with her and she wanted to determine if he was identical with the actor. She said she was sorry if she caused any trouble.

At this point in the interview JAMES CAGNEY and the writer left the office and CAGNEY is no uncertain terms described [REDACTED] as a "brute" [REDACTED] individual" and referred to her putting her hands on him, looking so intently into his face, and asking for his autograph. He indicated he felt that she was engaged in some sort of shadowy program.

While CAGNEY and the writer were talking, Agent [redacted] advised that [redacted] then told [redacted] and himself that she believed that CAGNEY was identical with the man she had known in Detroit and was just putting on an act dressed in old clothes as he was to confuse her. She made this statement to CAGNEY when he and the writer returned.

On taking her back to her apartment she was interviewed at considerable length, at which time further information was developed concerning her background and comparison made between the description of the man she knew and CAGNEY the actor. She said that they looked exactly alike with the exception that Subject's talk was clever than that of the actor and that CAGNEY, the actor, was fairer than the individual she knew; also, that he was more freckled. Otherwise, she stated they were identical. She also furnished information concerning the scars and marks on the man she knew in Detroit which would be included in this description. She said that she wished she could have seen CAGNEY with his clothes off and admitted to Agents that she was confused and was not sure that the man she knew in Detroit was CAGNEY, the actor. She said that he always wore white shorts and at this time also said that once the Subject had told her he was not JAMES CAGNEY, the actor, and wanted to know if she would still carry him. She said that later he retracted this and said he did this just to test her.

When [redacted] was asked for background information concerning herself, she said that she was "expecting that." She said it was not a very nice background but still it had nothing to do with the situation in which she was presently finding herself. She said she was born [redacted] and had a birth certificate in her possession reflecting same, in

B7C

Upon leaving [REDACTED] she stated she traveled for several years, living with relatives, and then went back to Detroit. At one time she was going to remarry [REDACTED] but never did. In Detroit she worked as a model, went to [REDACTED] but never did. She was also at [REDACTED] and worked as a sales clerk. She said this is a dress shop [REDACTED]. She was also at [REDACTED] as a model. She said this was located [REDACTED] in Detroit. She stated she was not working at all prior to coming to California in March of this year. Other places where she had worked she stated were the [REDACTED] and another place. She said she kept company with [REDACTED] owner of the concern, and at one time was going to marry him. She stated she understood [REDACTED] now happily married [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] stated when she came to California she did not have a job but came out here because JAMES CAGNEY had told her that she should do so and wait his return from London. She stated she did this because she knew he was back in the country but had not gotten in touch with her and she wanted to find out why, hence the telephone calls to the CAGNEY's. She explained her present address by advising that she read an advertisement in one of the local newspapers and on answering it found that [REDACTED] wanted a girl to live with her and this was what she was doing.

Through [REDACTED] she met [REDACTED]. She stated she is working in the wardrobe department and aspires to be a designer. [REDACTED] explained that one time in Detroit she introduced the subject to good friends of hers, [REDACTED] and that they believed subject was identical with later JAMES CAGNEY, and at least to them he appeared to be genuine. She explained that they were former residents of Detroit and had gone to [REDACTED] and within the next month or so were going to [REDACTED]. While in Detroit she said she lived at [REDACTED]

With reference to her relatives [REDACTED] said her father is with him. Her mother is dead. She stated she has a brother, [REDACTED] and she has two sisters, [REDACTED] She said she corresponds with them through her brother.

B7C
B7D

At the conclusion of this interview with [REDACTED] she was told that should any occasion arise to get in touch with her, same would be done and the Bureau would continue its investigation to ascertain the identity of Subject. She inquired as to whether JAMES CAGNEY had offered the writer any money. She was told that this of course was not true or even a sensible question.

CAGNEY got in touch with the writer later that day and stated [REDACTED] whom he described as a keen observer of character stated that he believed [REDACTED] was "not . . . the daffy type".

The writer from [REDACTED], Hollywood Victory Committee, telephone [REDACTED] obtained the following schedule of the Hollywood Cavalcade which toured the United States in the interest of the Third War Bond Drive. It started on September 8, 1943, in Washington, D. C. and thereafter the dates as pertinent to this matter are as follows:

September 14 - Detroit
September 15 - Cincinnati
September 16 - Chicago
September 17 - Minneapolis
September 18 - St. Louis
September 20 - New Orleans
September 21 - Dallas
September 22 - San Antonio
September 23 - San Francisco
September 26 - Los Angeles

It is to be noted that it was September 14, 1943, that the tour appeared in Detroit instead of the 13th. [REDACTED] stated that he believed that CAGNEY also left this city to tour in the interests of the Bond Drive on October 13, 1943, when he was in Toronto, Canada, and that he left Los Angeles January 5, 1944, for New York City enroute to London, England. CAGNEY said he left New York for England on January 23, 1944, and got back to this country on May 8, 1944.

Under date of July 17, 1944, a conference teletype was dispatched requesting Detroit and Grand Rapids to conduct investigation. Detroit was requested to ascertain whether one G. R. PIKE, with aliases, had [REDACTED] during the periods pertinent to this matter and also to conduct discreet investigation to further identify [REDACTED] was requested to interview [REDACTED] [REDACTED] who according to [REDACTED] had met the Subject. To date no response has been received from those offices.

B7C
B7D

The Bureau Laboratory was furnished with the two letters mentioned herein written to [REDACTED] by the Subject on this date. [REDACTED] turned over to Agent a slip from her address book upon which Subject had written "L. P. Pike and G. R. Pike". This notation is being retained in the files of the Los Angeles Office for possible future use.

Detroit is being made the office of origin in this matter inasmuch as the violation of the impersonation Statute occurred in that district. Six copies of this report have been made for the Los Angeles Office in order that if investigation is requested in other districts appropriate copies may be furnished them.

[REDACTED] They related that this meeting took place on about the night of 1-2-44 [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] They advised further that they further recalled this evening specifically because [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] were celebrating their decision to be married. [REDACTED] stated that on this particular evening there were only the four of them, that is, themselves and [REDACTED] in the party. [REDACTED] They advised that they had never seen [REDACTED] before that time, nor have they ever seen him since.

[REDACTED] advised that during the course of the evening never did [REDACTED] claim to be JAMES CAGNEY, nor did he make any statement to the effect that he was connected with the FBI or with any other governmental agency. They stated that he was very vague as to his work, but did state that he was going overseas in the immediate future. [REDACTED] stated that they could not recall that the party met anyone else that evening, nor did anyone join them during the course of the evening.

[REDACTED] stated [REDACTED] gave her the following account of her acquaintanceship with [REDACTED] was at [REDACTED] Detroit, Michigan, with another party, some time during 1943. At that time a war bond drive was in progress and there was a large group of persons at the table next to [REDACTED]. A radio announcer at the table told [REDACTED] that JAMES CAGNEY was in the party and later introduced the party claiming to be JAMES CAGNEY to [REDACTED]. It is reported by [REDACTED] to have seen this same radio announcer at Madison's Department Store in Detroit in connection with the war bond drive on the following day after this meeting. CAGNEY is then supposed to have been with [REDACTED] and made arrangements to meet her later. [REDACTED] gave CAGNEY her telephone number.

[REDACTED] continued [REDACTED] told her later that this same party later advised [REDACTED] either verbally or by letter that he actually was not CAGNEY, but was in reality [REDACTED] and that he was employed by the Government. [REDACTED] allegedly showed [REDACTED] a letter signed "J.C." with a very illegible return address on the envelope, which seemed to have the initials [REDACTED] and the name [REDACTED] written on it. Other movie stars, which were supposed to be along on the war bond drive at that time were BETTY HUTTON and PAUL MERRILL.

According to [REDACTED] also told her that she [REDACTED] to be in Detroit about Christmas time of 1943, but that he did not show up until two or three weeks later in January, 1944. [REDACTED] also told [REDACTED] that she and [REDACTED] expected to be married, and that she was to meet [REDACTED] in Los Angeles in April of 1944 for that purpose. According to [REDACTED] letters from [REDACTED] to date have indicated that [REDACTED] has not shown up.

[REDACTED], or the night following, [REDACTED] had telephoned long distance to [REDACTED] purpose of discussing [REDACTED] going to [REDACTED] to act as godfather for the it later developed [REDACTED] newborn baby, which was named "Jim". [REDACTED] advised that he was turned a godfather by proxy.

[REDACTED] stated that [REDACTED] had written to one of the Hollywood studios requesting that the studio send her a picture of JAMES CAGNEY. To this letter [REDACTED] signed [REDACTED] name. Mrs. [REDACTED] stated that some weeks later she received a picture inscribed "For [REDACTED] all the best, JAMES CAGNEY". [REDACTED] emphasized that this picture did not appear to be a regular routine studio publicity picture but seemed to be a special one, not only because of the frame and the size of the picture, but because of the inscription on it. They stated further that the picture was posed exactly like a pose [REDACTED] had struck on the night of the party [REDACTED] and they seemed to think that this bore some significance.

They stated that this picture was presently in a trunk belonging to [REDACTED] at the home of [REDACTED] another [REDACTED] to the Bureau if they desired it, but [REDACTED] would like to have the picture back when it has served its purpose.

[REDACTED] were unable to furnish any other information, except that during the party [REDACTED] they called [REDACTED] the name of "Jim". They stated that he was well-dressed and seemed to have plenty of money. [REDACTED] both stated that they had never met JAMES CAGNEY personally, but from the pictures they had seen of him, the person known to them as [REDACTED] could very well be the actor. They described the party they had met as [REDACTED] having sandy hair, with streaks of grey in it, wavy and receding slightly on both sides of the temples. They stated he is about five feet, six inches tall, stocky build, weighing 160 to 165 pounds, and about 42 years old. They stated further that he had gold fillings in his teeth, which was noticeable when he smiled. They could not recall any freckles or his complexion, but stated that on the night they met him he wore a light brown suit. They were unable to recall any pins or rings that might have worn.

1 - Laboratory

No definite conclusion could be reached as to whether specimens #2 through #4 were written by JAMES EARL RAY, Jr., due to the limited amount of comparable known handwriting submitted for comparison purposes. If further examination is desired it is suggested that additional known specimens be obtained from RAY in the wording of the questioned material and submitted to the laboratory for comparison with the mentioned writing.

The questioned specimens were searched in the Federal Impersonator's Handwriting File and the Anonymous Letter File without effecting an identification. Representative photographic copies of these specimens are being added to the appropriate sections of these files for future comparison.

Samples #2 through #4 were chemically treated for the development of latent fingerprints but none of value was found.

In accordance with your request the original spec. cans, #2 through #4 and #1, are being returned herewith to the Los Angeles Field Office and photographic copies of these specimens are attached hereto for the interested field offices.

IMPERSONATION

REGARDING [REDACTED] AS IT IS BELIEVED THAT HE CAN BE LOCATED AT [REDACTED] FROM ADDRESS GIVEN, INC."

For the Bureau's further information a conference teletype was received from the Detroit office dated July 22, 1944, to Dallas, Grand Rapids and Los Angeles, advising that the matter was not going to be presented to the United States Attorney's Office because the facts set forth in reference report did not reflect a violation of the Impersonation Statute.

On that same date the Los Angeles office, following receipt of this teletype, requested the Dallas Field Division to continue efforts to locate [REDACTED] and appropriately reprimand him if he was determined to be the subject of this case.

Reference is also made to letter you received from the Dallas Field Division dated July 27, 1944, reflecting that it was probable [REDACTED] had been located but that he was not in the city and was to be absent for the next three weeks. In this letter the Dallas Office stated that no further investigation was going to be conducted and that it was not contemplated that he would be interviewed, by which the case was referred upon completion to this office.

It is again requested that the Dallas office, on the return of [REDACTED] to that city, interview him, at which time, if it appears that he is the subject of this case, he should be reprimanded for making statements to the effect that he is working for the Federal Bureau of Investigation as a counter-espionage agent. The Detroit office is also requested to furnish this division with a report setting forth the results of the investigation there.

For the assistance of the Dallas Field Division in its interview with [REDACTED] a copy of the report of Special Agent [REDACTED] dated July 26, 1944, [REDACTED] is being furnished with a copy of this letter. B7D

MEMORANDUM

Reference is made to the report of Special Agent [REDACTED] dated July 26, 1944 at Grand Rapids, Michigan. A lead is set forth in this report for the Detroit Field Division to attempt to secure the picture of JAMES CAGNEY from [REDACTED], for the purpose of making it available to the Los Angeles Office for comparison with regular studio photographs of CAGNEY.

B7C

In view of the fact that investigation at Detroit as referred to the Los Angeles Field Division by teletype dated July 19, 1944 and as incorporated in the report of Special Agent [REDACTED] dated July 19, 1944, it appears that the subject in this case is definitely established as [REDACTED] of [REDACTED] Texas. CAGNEY, by reason of the discrepancy in date of [REDACTED] in Detroit and the dates as established by the complainant, [REDACTED] could not be the subject of this case. Therefore, there appears no logical reason for obtaining the picture of JAMES CAGNEY from [REDACTED] and this lead is not being covered.

B7D

The case is now considered referred upon compilation to the office of origin.

sitting there were two couples. One of the ladies, he later learned, was sitting at the table borrowed a chair from his group and this started a conversation between the two groups. One [REDACTED] and while dancing with her a short time later [REDACTED] like to meet JAMES CAGNEY. She stated that she would, and after the same [REDACTED] was introduced to her as JAMES CAGNEY.

[REDACTED] stated that sometime later the party broke up and at that time [REDACTED] gave [REDACTED] her telephone number. He returned to Detroit about a month later and again met [REDACTED] and at this time he was JAMES CAGNEY. He did nothing to change her mind in that respect. He stated that about a month later he again returned to Detroit, at which time he still believed he was not JAMES CAGNEY and his name was [REDACTED]. At this time [REDACTED] asked [REDACTED] the name of the organization with which he was associated, and he replied that he could not tell her, as it was a military secret. He stated that the reason he didn't tell her was all obvious, in that he was a married man and did not wish to create any complications.

[REDACTED] stated he saw [REDACTED] a time or two after this time, but had not seen her in recent months. He emphatically denied that he at any time represented himself as an employee of the Federal Bureau of Investigation or any other Federal agency, nor did he intimate to [REDACTED] that he was doing any work for the FBI or any other Federal agency.

[REDACTED] stated that in connection with his impersonation of JAMES CAGNEY, Mr. [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] for several years his friends and others have called him "Cagney" because of his resemblance to JAMES CAGNEY. Through personal observation it has been noted [REDACTED] bears a marked resemblance to CAGNEY and it would readily be understood that anyone could mistake [REDACTED] for CAGNEY.

[REDACTED] related many incidents wherein he had been mistaken for CAGNEY. Some of the incidents have been amusing and other not, [REDACTED] stated. He said that just recently he had occasion to go to New Orleans, where a young man about 16 years of age stopped at the open door, with mouth open, and asked [REDACTED] if he were Mr. CAGNEY. [REDACTED] told him that he had on several occasions been taken for Mr. CAGNEY, and then the young man came in and sat down and talked for about an hour. [REDACTED] stated he did not tell the young boy he was CAGNEY but the boy thought that he was, and when the boy was ready to leave, [REDACTED] told him he should not mention to anybody that he had seen CAGNEY. Within the space of about 10 minutes, the young boy returned to the compartment with his boy friend, who was about six feet, one inch in height and weighed about 190 pounds. This

[redacted] newcomer, after a short visit, tested his strength against that of [redacted] by placing their right elbows on the table and then grasping right hands. [redacted] stated that he easily pushed the young man's hand back to the table, and the young fellow then got up and said, "You sure are JAMES CADDET."

addition, the Detroit office was advised to forward

Office of the Attorney General
UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT

SEARCHED [REDACTED] INDEXED [REDACTED]

You will recall that James Cagney, of Los Angeles, California, alleged that James Cagney had misrepresented himself to her as an FBI Agent in September, 1943.

The Miller Office recently submitted a report reflecting an interview with [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] admitted that he was the subject in this case but denied making any representation that he was connected with the FBI or any other Government agency. The reporting Agent noted that there was a marked similarity in physical make-up between [REDACTED] and James Cagney. As a matter of fact, during the course of the interview with [REDACTED] he admitted that he had, on a number of occasions, been mistaken for James Cagney, the movie actor.

ACTION:

The United States Attorney in Detroit has already declined prosecution and it appears that no further investigation is necessary.

SUBJECT:

Case No. [REDACTED]
INVESTIGATION

Reference is made to the report of Special Agent [REDACTED] dated September 3, 1946 at Dallas, Texas, inasmuch as this completes the investigation in this matter. Inasmuch as this case is being closed,

The Detroit office is requested by my letter to the Director dated August 4, 1946, in which it was requested to furnish the Los Angeles Field Division with a copy of the results of the investigation previously conducted in that district. In view of the fact that this case is being closed, the same is not necessary.

The letters furnished this office by [REDACTED] for forwarding to the Bureau for handwriting examination, said letters being written by the subject in this case, are being returned to her, inasmuch as she requested that this be done when they had served their purpose.
